About Team Planting Days

These events offer a unique opportunity to step away from the office, spend a day outdoors in nature, and contribute to vital environmental restoration efforts. Led by our Ecological Restoration Manager, participants will gain hands-on experience planting native trees and plants while learning about Western Australia's amazing natural ecosystems.

About Guildford Meadows (Mandoon Moitch)

Located on the banks of the Derbal Yerrigan (Swan River), this site was cleared for grazing in the 1930s. The degraded floodplain forms part of a significant remnant wetland at the meeting place of the Swan River and Bennet Brook. Since 2016, Trillion Trees volunteers have planted over 100,000 trees across 28 hectares here bringing us about halfway to restoring this important habitat refuge and green corridor.

About Helena River (Mandoon Bilya)

Home to Western Long Neck Turtles, and a large variety of bird species, this riverbank project is rebuilding local plant communities along the lower floodplain to provide viable habitat to the many remnant fauna species adjacent to our Hazelmere base.
